We could read more and more into punk, let's just leave it as one of culture's outer The punk group playing was R.U.R., sounding straight-out, hard-nose rock and roll with guitars and drums guaranteed to make you jump up and down without synthesizer jolts and laser lights.

But punk, it turned out, wasn't necessarily the reason Bookie's was jammed to the rafters Tuesday night. Johnny and the Jake Joints, it turned out, was J. Geils — Peter Wolf, Magic Dick and all that crowd who had just finished three exhausting nights at Pine Knob for 50,000. They were going to do a gig for free at Bookie's because the word is out nationally that Bookie's is now Detroit's top stop for anyone on the tour who wants to let it all out.

The limo-driven Geils band came on at 1:15 a.m. and turned out as torrid a set of rock and blues as I have experienced. Had me dancing atop a bar stool. Reminded me of the old Grandee Ballroom scenes a decade ago. From The Den of Forty Thieves to Bookie's, quite an outer-edge odyssey.

DURING

OK, brief and to the point- RUR and Flirt were good, the classical group and the jazz band were a decent change of pace(you know, to go walk aroung outside, make a liquor run,etc.), Sonic's sucked, and the only thing which made Patti's set interesting were the oldies the band performed (Jailhouse Rock, Secret Agent Man,.....)

IT'S A REBELLION against disco music which pours out like homogenized milk around smooth syrup, Patti Smith is its high priestess, currently in exile in Detroit. The crowd at Bookie's whispers she's cookin' up something big from this Motor City experience.

"ARSON LIVE"

"Toronto's ultimate punk act" Scott Price

"Arson" consists of five very energetic performers capable of sucking an audience dry only to leave them panting for more.

"Sex, aggression, and social unrest provide the band(Arson) with an unlimited charge account to the cynically serious side of FUN!!!"

from the band who told you to get torched, that same band asks, "Are you ready for The Last of the Wild Boys???"
